PARENT-TEACHER MEET

Shillong Commerce College

Shillong

June 23, 2018

The meeting was opened by Mr Dominick Sawkmie, Associate Professor of the Department of Economics, who was also the Chairperson of the Meeting. Mr Sawkmie welcomed all the parents for attending the meeting because this interaction would help the college in meeting the needs of the students. He further mentioned that being a father himself, he realised that Shillong Commerce College is one outstanding college which would organise such meetings frequently in order to enable the college and its faculty to give their best to the students.

The Principal of the college, Mr J M Massar, delivered the welcome address. The Principal thanked especially the parents who made an effort to attend the meeting because, according to him, this gesture on their part indicated that they really cared for their children. He mentioned about the sad situation that some parents do not care for their children. Ironically, they love their children but do not care about them. This is the attitude that is not good. In this college, according to him, 70 percent of the students do not have fathers. In such a situation, mothers or the guardians were expected to attend such meetings to communicate to the college about the difficulties that their children are going through. The college would like to know about the behaviour of the children at home. "Are they responsible? Are they serious with their studies?" These are some of the concerns that should not be taken for granted. As a matter of fact, in this day and age, it is very difficult to raise up children. The easy access to social media is a threat to the children's welfare. This complicated situation has necessitated the Principal to be more sensitive towards the students that he has become their 'father' in the college. His door is always opened to them and in the course of time he has learned so much especially from the students who are regular absentees. Discipline is an essence of the college. Absentism of three days in a row, according to the rule of the college, makes it mandatory for students to meet the Principal with proper explanation for absentism though provision of a medical certificate is not essential. This meeting was essential for parents especially to interact openly with the college authorities and faculty. The Principal also informed the parents about the provision of extra teaching on GST, Tally and a plan for a Certificate Course on Tourism in order to help students be employable. The college has proudly produced many successful professionals including the Registrar General of the High Court, Lawyers, Meghalaya Civil Services Officers, Probationary Officers, Professors and Lecturers to name a few. Parents were also informed about the daily availability of free medical treatment provided by a doctor and a nurse. Apart from this, the college provides Mentoring and a Counsellor is specially employed to cater to the students' psychological needs. The holistic development of the students is the concern of the college and therefore awareness programmes on relevant issues are also being held on a regular basis. The Principal concluded his speech by encouraging parents to communicate with him or the faculty regarding any issue related to their children or to write a complaint and put it in the complaint box because according to him, "In the college we have no power but we can influence life".

The next speaker was Mr Shanbor Kharmawphlang, Parents' Representative and IQAC member of Shillong Commerce College. Mr Kharmawphlang felt that this meeting was organised at the right time because this was the time when the sessions started. To him, as well as other parents, it is a privilege to have children study in this college because, as the Principal had mentioned that, the college provides not only educational qualifications but is also concerned about the welfare of the children and the community at large.

Parents appreciated the college management for organising this meeting and appreciated the faculty for meeting the intellectual needs of their children. They also spoke about their concern for their respective children when it comes to attendance and discipline. Another parent suggested that college students should not be treated as children but as adults to enable them to be responsible and mature human beings

Mr D M Syiem wrapped up the meeting by requesting the parents to co-operate with the teachers by encouraging their children to study on a regular basis and not only for passing the examination so that there will be overall development in the professional life of the students.

Dr (Mrs) Sen, the Vice-Principal of the college delivered the vote of thanks with the concluding remarks: "To speak gratitude is courteous and pleasant, to enact gratitude is generous and noble, to live gratitude is to touch heaven".

REPORT ON THE WORKSHOP ON WOMEN IN THE WORKPLACE

Dated: 28th July 2018

Venue: Conference Hall, Shillong Commerce College

Organized by the IQAC, Shillong Commerce College

The “University Grants Commission (Prevention, Prohibition and Redressal of Sexual Harassment of Women Employees and Students in Higher Educational Institutions) Regulations 2015” describes the responsibilities of higher educational institutions in taking measures for prevention of sexual harassment at the workplace. UGC Regulations are statutory in nature, and hence all universities and colleges are bound by it. With this objective in mind the college had organized this programme to educate the participants not only about the challenges that women faced in the workplace but what discrimination and harassment is, explains legal definitions, discusses prevention, shows how to handle complaints and how to create a healthy environment for oneself. The Programme was attended by students and Teacher, both male and female.

Session:1

ISSUES DISCRIMINATION AND CHALLENGES FACED BY WOMEN IN THE WORK PLACE WITH SPECIAL REFERENCE TO LEGAL REDRESSAL

Resource Person: Smti. A. M Pariat, Secretary, District Legal Services Authority, Government of Meghalaya

There are several issues and problems that women face today. Sometimes, they are not treated equally in their workplace and are considered as inferior to their male co-workers and in some cases they do not get the same benefits as that of a male employee. The major issues and problems that women face at their work place includes unequal pay, security, sexual harassment, lack of proper family support, deficient maternity leave, etc. However, there is a difference between bullying and harassment and the phenomenon is not country specific but universal. Workplace bullying is gender agnostic (non-believer) and can be perpetrated by both male and even a female boss. Sexual harassment in workplace is a serious factor that renders women’s involvement in work place unsafe and affects right to work with dignity.

National Commission for Women Act, 1990 (Act of Parliament): Creates a National Commission for Women to review existing statutory protection of women; prepare periodic reports to the Central Government on matters relating to safeguards for women's rights; investigate complaints relating to the deprivation of these rights; and financially assist in the litigation of issues affecting women. Therefore all the rights of women have to be respected, protected and fulfilled, be it right to property, right to health, education and life with dignity. The law and order has to look into these crimes specifically and effectively curb them with an iron hand. Lack of safety prevents women from fully participating in the public life. Thus providing safety or finding solutions also need to be observed within a framework of rights. Only then can women access the full range of rights of being a true citizen.

"EMPOWERING WOMEN IN THE WORKPLACE THROUGH EDUCATION ".

Resource Person: Smti. Arlene Sangma (Retd. IAS), Political Adviser & Secretary to Chief Minister, Government of Meghalaya, Shillong. Ex-Deputy Commissioner of Baghmara, Ex-Chairman of the Legal Commission

We know that until children, especially girls, are educated, societies won't change. Education is the antidote for ignorance, poverty and war. Empowering women is extremely important in this plan. Only a society that educates, empowers and respects its women can become an advanced society.

Education is versatile and mentoring is vital. Embarking on a new job is challenging. Adaptation and preparation to learn and strive will enable us to achieve our goals. We must build self confidence and, thus, the more knowledge we acquire, the more the self confidence. We should never procrastinate but set a time to complete tasks. Ambience and relationships will matter in any place we work.

We should strive to succeed and the price of success is dedication, devotion and hard work. The session was a lively and innovative one and it ended on a positive note with a vote of thanks from the Chairperson, Mrs. J. C. Blah, Coordinator of Women Cell.
